Dear Prospective Sponsor:

RE: Slater's Sheep Community Art Project Sponsorships

Webster Museums, Inc. has spent the past four years developing a unique educational venue that will bring to life the impact that Samuel Slater had on the community of Webster and surrounding towns.

The new Samuel Slater Experience will open later this summer in the former National Guard Armory on Ray Street. It will tell a continuous story of Samuel Slater's life from leaving England in 1789 to eventually settling in Webster. The museum will include a series of immersive experiences that use a variety of cutting-edge digital technologies that make each visitor a realistic witness and participant in the journey.

In history books, Slater is described as the "Father of the American Revolution" and he is buried in Webster. But who knew?

We invite you to become a sponsor for an awareness campaign that will lead up to the grand opening of the Samuel Slater Experience.

It is called the Slater's Sheep Community Art Project. It proposes to parade 25 colorfully decorated life-sized sheep along our streets and in our lobbies, each painted by a local artist and "owned" by a local business, association, or individual.

Each sheep will have a recognition plaque that gives both the name of the artist and the sponsor and will be securely attached to a concrete base. Your investment covers the sheep, all local transportation costs for placing the sheep in your desired location, the cost of painting and finishing materials and a stipend for the artist of your choosing.

The enclosed brochure provides additional information.

If you are interested in this fun project and would like more details, please email me at cgallant@samuel Slater Experience.org or call 508-243-2543.

We hope you will join us in this venture.

Webster Museums, Inc., is a 501 c (3) non-profit organization.
